

COLORADO LEGISLATURE

Which Met at Noon Today Will Seat Peabody

TROUBLE WILL BY NO MEANS END THERE

Adams' Managers Announced Today That Adams Will Take the Oath on January 10—Delegates are Preparing to Ask for Federal Action In the Election Muddle.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 4.—The indications are that the state legislature, which convenes today, will seat the contesting Republicans, and thus insure the seating of Peabody as governor over Adams, Democrat.

Colorado's election troubles will not end with the seating of Peabody, which probably will take place before Friday noon. Delegates are preparing to ask President Roosevelt or the United States Supreme court to interfere to head this off when they allowed the returns for congressmen and presidential electors to be signed without a call.

The legislators are nearly all in town. Great effort is being made to induce Frank Frewen, E. O. Wolcott's lieutenant to abandon the stand he took against Peabody and to satisfy up-state members that Peabody really is elected. Good jobs are the means by which the leaders hope to change

NAN PATTERSON

May Not be Tried for Months—Another Effort to Get Her Out of Prison.

New York, Jan. 4.—After a conference with District Attorney Jerome, Attorney Levy of counsel for Nan Patterson announced that he would attempt to have the former chorus girl released on bail, and that he would go into the supreme court with an application for a writ compelling the appearance of Miss Patterson in court on an application for bail. Mr. Levy said the district attorney has positively decided to retry Miss Patterson and will oppose her release on bail. Mr. Levy quoted Mr. Jerome as saying that he deemed it as his official duty to try Miss Patterson again, as the jury was evenly divided on the question of her guilt or innocence. The district attorney would not say how soon he would be ready to proceed with the trial—it might be months. Mr. Levy said the defense was ready with bondsmen.

ONLY ONE VOTE

Cast Against Senator Clapp Who Will Succeed Himself—Clapp Gets the Call.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—The Republican members of the legislature held a caucus for the purpose of nominating a United States senator to succeed Moses E. Clapp, and by a vote of 127 to 1 Mr. Clapp was endorsed for reelection. Governor S. R. Van Sant also had announced his candidacy for the senatorial office, but he did not receive a vote in the caucus.

BLIZZARD

Sweeps Over New York and East Causing Food Famine.

New York, Jan. 4.—The worst blizzard since 1888 swept over New York and the east last night and this morning. Traffic was badly hampered and in some instances was completely tied up. The blizzard of yesterday afternoon was the harbinger of the blizzard. The temperature fell rapidly and a fifty-mile gale blew up from the northwest and the wind sent the falling snow hurrying along in a blinding cloud. A mild food famine was threatened here this morning by the non-arrival of the milk and meat trains. Bakers could not deliver bread and coal dealers were tied up. The storm extends from New England to the south along the Atlantic coast. All railroads are suffering. John Fick, 54, a gate man, died from cold and exposure.

York, Pa., Jan. 4.—Blinded by the snow, A. Brennan and Charles Fishel, trackmen on the Northern Central, were struck and killed by an express train.

FOUR PRISONERS

Escaped From Guard at Fort Hamilton During Stampede of The Horses.

New York, Jan. 4.—During an evidently designed stampede of the officers' horses at Fort Hamilton, four prisoners escaped from the guards at the post. One of them was recaptured and the other three are believed to have perished in the icy waters of the harbor. The recaptured prisoner is Paul Berg, who was taken in custody in Manhattan by a detail sent out from the fort.

ENGLISH ACTRESS

Suffers Fracture of Knee Cap—Mrs. Patrick Campbell Has a Severe Fall.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the English actress, fractured a kneecap, the result of a fall while entering a carriage to go to the Broad Street theater. She was removed to the University of Pennsylvania hospital, and it will be two months, the doctors say, before she will be able to walk. The cause of her American tour will be abandoned.

TRAIN RAN AWAY

Hazleton, Pa., Jan. 4.—The Lehigh Valley coal train of 28 cars going down Weather Hills during the blizzard this morning got beyond control of the engineer near Hazleton Junction, and the engine jumped the track and toppled over into the creek. The entire train followed, burying the crew. Engineer Swank, Fireman Turner and Fireman Moehrer are under the mass of debris.

PEACE TALK

Resented by People of Russia

Terrible Conditions in the Fallen Fortress

IS A DEBRIS STREWN DESERT

No Outburst in Russia Against Ruler—Terms of Surrender—Day's War News.

Tokyo, Jan. 4.—(Bulletin)—The number of prisoners captured at Port Arthur, it is announced today, is 25,000. There was 35,000 people in the city of whom 20,000 were either sick or wounded.

Tokyo, Jan. 4.—General Nogi today reports that the conference relative to the final acts to surrender of Port Arthur was concluded yesterday. The transfer of war materials, etc., to the Japanese began this morning.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 4.—The flood of telegrams from abroad bringing talk of peace arouses only resentment in official circles here, and even many liberals, who are urgently pressing the government for reforms, aroused by the dreadful story of heroism and suffering of the Port Arthur garrison, declare emphatically against any cessation of hostilities until Russia's honor is vindicated by a victory in Manchuria. Equal resentment is aroused by foreign criticism of General Stoessel for blowing up the ships in the harbor and destroying the town of Port Arthur when he could no longer defend them.

Accounts received from Port Arthur refugees of the straits to which the garrison was reduced before it surrendered are almost unexampled. It is quite true that some explosives were left where with the ships and some houses were destroyed; but the ammunition of many of the forts was absolutely exhausted. Some had not fired a shot for two days before the negotiations opened. The men had been living solely on rice for a month and many were suffering from scurvy. Even the effective soldiers were nearly all wounded.

General Stoessel's recent reports painting the harrowing picture of the depleted and exhausted garrison fighting on hopelessly, were posted on the bulletin boards and attracted enormous crowds, whose grief at the fall of the fortress was swallowed up by admiration for the heroic defenders. General Stoessel stated that towards the end of the year the supplies of ammunition completely gave out, there were 14,000 sick and wounded in the hospitals and 700 fresh casualties coming in daily. The general also said that at the end of the siege he had only 10,000 men under arms, the remainder of the original garrison having been either killed or wounded.

A Delayed Message.

Port Arthur, Jan. 4.—(Delayed)—The request of the Russians for doctors and food has been granted. The noncombatants, it is learned, will be allowed to return to Russia.

Irenshan, Antushan and Tai Yangkow forts were today occupied by the Japanese.

The date for the marching out of the Russian prisoners has, at their request, been postponed till Thursday. Four torpedo boats and one transport have been allowed to escape to Chefoo. They sailed yesterday.

Destination, Vladivostok.

Paris, Jan. 4.—Captain Clado, who was with Admiral Rozhkovsky's squadron at the time of the Donga bank affair, and who later was detached and ordered to St. Petersburg, where he was placed under arrest for persistent action of the proposition to bring the Russian Black Sea fleet through the Dardanelles in spite of treaty obligations, declared that Admiral Rozhkovsky never intended to approach Port Arthur but would wait for the Russian fleet, which was of the most important to the fleet.

Surrender For Sick.

Wohai, Jan. 4.—The British steamer "Albatross" sailed for Port Arthur today carrying a large quantity of medical supplies. She was ordered to Port Arthur for the Russian sick and wounded.

TERMS OF SURRENDER

Synopsis of the Conditions of the Capitulation of the Russian Stronghold.

Tokyo, Jan. 4.—The war office has made public the text of the articles of capitulation of the Port Arthur garrison, signed by the commissioners representing General Stoessel and General Nogi. A synopsis follows:

All Russian soldiers, marines, civil officials of the garrison and all who are made prisoners; all forts, batteries, vessels, munitions, etc., are transferred to the Japanese in the condition in which they existed at noon of Jan. 3. Violation of this clause to operate as an annulment of the negotiations, giving the Japanese army warrant to take free action; the Russian military and naval authorities are to furnish to the Japanese army an exhibit of all fortifications, underground and submarine mines, a list of military officers, of ships and the numbers of their crews, and of civilians of both sexes, with their race and occupations; and all public property, as buildings, munitions of war, etc., to be left in the present position pending arrangement for their transference. Officers of the army and navy are permitted to retain their swords and such of their personal property as is directly necessary for the maintenance of life, and with one servant each may, upon signing their parole not to take up arms during the continuance of the war, return to Russia. Noncommissioned officers and privates will be held as prisoners. For the benefit of the sick and wounded Russians the sanitary corps and the accountants belonging to the Russian army and navy will be required to serve under the Japanese sanitary corps and accountants for such period of time as may be deemed necessary.

PORT ARTHUR

Is a Frightful Scene—Only a Few Thousand Soldiers Sound—Hospital Scenes.

Chefoo, Jan. 4.—Some interesting statistics concerning the defense of Port Arthur were brought here by the flotilla of Russian torpedo-boat destroyers. Originally the army numbered 35,000. Seven thousand have been killed; 16,000 are wounded or sick, and 8,000 remained in the forts, of whom, however, 2,000 were unable to fight. It is learned that when General Stoessel wrote to General Nogi regarding the surrender of the fortress he said: "I have 8,000 men in the forts, and 6,000 of these are able to fight. If you do not accept my proposal these men will die fighting, but it will cost you three times their number to kill them." The number of officers killed was proportionately greater than any battle known in history. This was due to the frequent lethargic conditions of the men, who, without food and without sleep, moved only when ordered by their officers. The Russians estimate that the taking of the fortress has cost Japan $100,000,000.

Midshipman Kisorich, commanding a launch that escaped from Port Arthur, was interviewed. He said: "The bombardment of the last day or so was terrific. Everybody remarked that even General Stoessel must see the futility of further resistance, when our guns are unable to reply. We might have surrendered a month ago with the highest honor. That resistance has continued effectively since it is scarcely less than a miracle. It is a mere handful of broken-down men who surrender, and a debris-strewn desert which the Japanese gain. Not one of Port Arthur's magnificent public works remain."

Russian officers vividly describe the terrible conditions that exist in the hospitals at Port Arthur, which they say were worse than those of the battlefield. They relate how the Sisters of Charity, accustomed as they are to such ordeals, sickened under those conditions and fainted at their posts because of lack of nourishment.

Russians who have arrived here claim to see a blessing in disguise in the fall of Port Arthur. They say that the Russian second Pacific squadron can now wait until it is overwhelmingly reinforced, and that General Kurapatkin will be able to manage his campaign with a single eye to his own success, without making any false steps animated by a desire to relieve General Stoessel.

Attitude of France.

Paris, Jan. 4.—Inquiries at the foreign office relative to the mediation reports brought out a positive and specific denial that any such movement is imminent. In particular the report attributing to France an intention to send the European powers toward securing joint support for mediation is categorically denied. The officials reiterate that no steps whatever will be taken until one of the parties formally requests good offices. The authorities here have not received anything indicating that either of the belligerent sides are mediation. The Russian embassy made the following statement: "Although the embassy has not yet been officially informed of the capitulation of Port Arthur, it has the certainty that this disaster event, so long expected, will not modify in any way whatever the resolution of the imperial government concerning the conduct of the military operations."

FRIGHTFULL ACCIDENT AT HUNTINGTON

Whole Vessel Thrown Into the Air and Burned and Mangled
People Fell Back Into the Ohio River—The Work of Rescue—The Boilers Were Recently
Inspected By Government.

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 3.—The known at present, are:
Perry Spencer, mate, Point Pleasant, W. Va.
Horace Wetzel, watchman, Pittsburg.
James Cease, lamp trimmer, Pittsburg.
Thomas Duffy, Scott Hamilton, James —, firemen, Pittsburg, supposed to have been burned to death.

William Wetzel, George Kidd, Dave Adkins, deckhands, Pittsburg.
Among the injured:
Capt. James Woodward, Pittsburg.
James Wilson, cook, Middleport, O.
Robt. Holland, roustabout, Pittsburg.

Isa Ellis, second engineer, Pittsburg.
John Francis, second cook, Pittsburg.
Pat Conley, second cook, Pittsburg.
Richard Conley, Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Jan. 4.—At the offices of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, owners of the wrecked boat, it was said this morning that Captain Woodward gave the following meagre details of the accident:
"We were two miles above Huntington, on the way to Pittsburg, when the accident occurred. The trouble was caused by two defective flues in the forward boiler. We are lying near Guyandotte and there is three feet of water covering our decks. The steamer's head is partly out of the water, her stern being entirely submerged. She is quivering badly. The Exporter came along about two or three hours after the accident and picked up our bows."

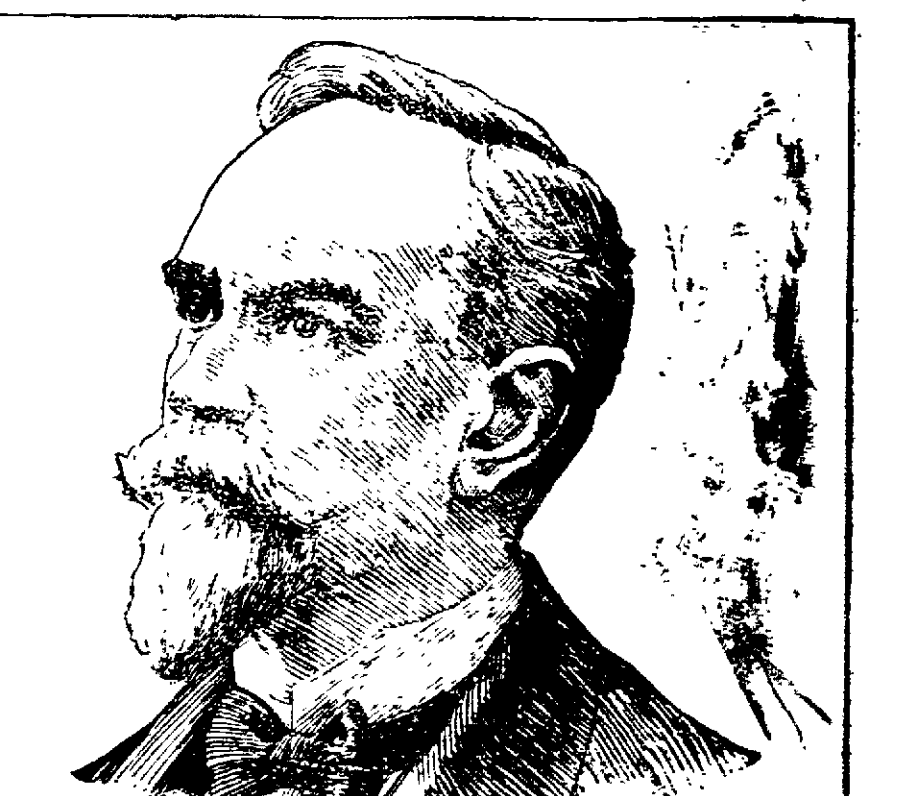

It was also stated at the offices that owing to the fact that men were hired as they applied on the steamer prior to her departure for Cincinnati, there was no list on board except that kept by the captain.

An official of the company said the boilers were thoroughly inspected two months ago at which time they were reported in perfect condition. The examination was made by government inspectors. The boilers were put in new a little over five years ago. It is believed that no time will be lost in investigating the cause of the disaster. Jurisdiction in the case comes under the Gallipolis district and must be conducted by the government inspectors there. They are Capt. Edward Maddy and Capt. Edward Morgan.

New York, Jan. 4.—David Searing, Williamsburg, died today in the street from exposure and so did an unknown man. Samuel Harris, 35, a salesman, of Hummelstown, Pa., was crushed to death by an "L" train today.

GOVERNOR PEABODY.

EX-GOVERNOR ALVA ADAMS.

THE COLORADO GOVERNMENTAL FIGHT.
The fight for the governorship of Colorado is attracting much attention. On the face of the returns ex-Governor Alva Adams was elected by about 12,000 plurality. The legislature, which is Republican, will, it is rumored, throw out a number of districts in which the vote is alleged to have been illegally cast. These changes may give the incumbent, Governor Peabody, another term.

quire into the legality of the seating of Peabody. They expect to get this done through non-resident surety companies who doubtless will want to know who is the governor before they sign bonds for the state treasurer and other officials. If Adams were elected governor or many of the state treasurer's acts might be held illegal with Peabody in the chair.

Democrats are confident they can get the case into the federal tribunals, and believe justice will be meted out there. They cite the Goebel case and say they have other precedents where federal authorities inquired into the validity of state elections. Republican the attitude of the protestants, but Frewen thus far is standing firm. The legislature convened at noon today. It is expected that all day will be required for the work of organization and that no action will be taken that has a direct bearing on the governorship.

The managers for Adams this morning announced that he would on January 10 take the oath of office as governor and that he would be sworn in by Justice Robert Steele, one of the Democratic members of the Supreme bench. This procedure is for the purpose of complying with the constitution.

DASHING HARRY

WHO RAN OFF WITH GIRL FROM BARNESVILLE

And Came to Newark, Is Wanted—Magazines Paid For Fail to Arrive Here.

Many Newark magazine readers will have to pay almost double price to enjoy their current literature during the year 1905.

A number of people desiring to take advantage of an exceptionally good clubbing offer last November paid their good money to a traveling representative and have recently learned that the coin failed to reach its proper destination. One man known to the Advocate is short $12, another is out $3 while a third foots up his loss at only $2.50. But there are others.

On November 6, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Patterson of Barnesville, Ohio, came to Newark in search of their pretty young daughter, Leona, who had left that town in company with a dashing young man calling himself Harry W. Rubloff. They were found here, and on the following day were united in marriage at the Second Presbyterian parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson having failed to induce their daughter to return home, went back to Barnesville and the Rubloffs remained here for some time.

Mr. Rubloff came to the Advocate office and producing letters and credentials bought and paid for advertising space in which he told of the advantages of buying magazines from him. It appears that he did a thriving business.

One of his alleged victims said on Wednesday that he had written to one of the publishing houses to inquire why he had received none of the magazines that he had ordered and paid for and a prompt reply came saying that the subscription price had never reached the office. One firm asked the address of Rubloff, intimating that other complaints had been received and that the firm was desirous of finding Rubloff.

New York, Jan. 4.—Rev. Dr. Carlos Martin, at one time pastor of the First Reformed church of Newark, N. Dr. Martin's successor as president of the company was indicted by the grand jury last week on a charge similar to the one on which Dr. Martin was arrested. The Abbey Press first came into public notice on Feb. 7, 1903, when a fire occurred in their store rooms and offices at 114 Fifth avenue. It is charged that the company was insured in excess of the value of its property and endeavored to collect insurance on supplies which were not burned. While the investigation was on the firm failed.

CAPTURES A MAN ACCUSED OF BURGLARY.

Said That the Fellow When Arrested at Columbus, Had Stolen Goods With Him.

Another pretty piece of detective work may be marked up to the credit of Chief of Police James Sheridan. Several nights ago the Bloomberg clothing store on South Third street, was burglarized, and a considerable quantity of clothing was carried off. The matter was immediately placed in the hands of the chief, and he has been on the lookout for the burglar ever since. Wednesday he went over to Columbus, and while there secured a tip that led to the arrest of a man who is charged with committing the crime. The chief will return to Newark this evening with his prisoner. When arrested the man had a portion of the stolen goods, consisting of an overcoat and several pairs of trousers in his possession.

RHEUMATISM

A few years ago I was taken with inflammatory Rheumatism, which, though mild at first, became gradually so intense that I was for weeks unable to walk. I tried several prominent physicians and took their treatment faithfully, but was unable to get the slightest relief. In fact, my condition seemed to grow worse, the pains spread over my entire body, and from November to March I suffered agony. I tried many patent medicines but none relieved me. Upon the advice of a friend I decided to try S. S. S. Before allowing me to take it, however, my guardian, who was a chemist, analyzed the remedy and pronounced it free of potash or mercury. I felt so much better after taking two bottles, that I continued the remedy, and in two months I was cured. The cure was permanent, for I have never since had a touch of Rheumatism, though many times exposed to damp and cold weather.

58 Cliff St., Roxbury, Mass. Mrs. ELIZABETH T. JONES.

For over four years I suffered intensely with Sciatic Rheumatism. The Rheumatism first troubled me in my hip, then spread to my shoulders, head, and finally all over my body. I became such an invalid that neither my family nor friends thought it possible for me to survive long. I had tried so many prescriptions given me by physicians (which contained a great deal of opium) that my stomach was ruined and there seemed no hope for recovery. I had been reading in the newspapers of S. S. S. and decided to try it, and to my joy commenced to get relief before the second bottle was gone. After completing five bottles I was an entirely different man, and felt that I had a new lease on life. The cure in my case has been so wonderful that I shall tell every one of it. S. S. S. not only cured my Rheumatism, but also put my system generally in excellent condition. I have a good appetite, sleep well and once more enjoy life.

Mt. Sterling, Ky.

B. M. FRISBIE.

RHEUMATISM comes from poor digestion, stomach troubles, torpid liver, weak kidneys and a general sluggish condition of the system. Food souring in the stomach poisons the blood—it becomes too acid. The liver and kidneys fail to act properly, and the circulation is clogged with impure matter and burning acrid fluids which penetrate and saturate the bones and muscles, joints and nerves, producing the terrible pains and aches and other disagreeable symptoms of Rheumatism. As it originates in the blood and affects the whole system, it will not do to depend on liniments and other external remedies. Such treatment is helpful, but the blood must be restored to a pure, healthy state before the cure is permanent. When S. S. S. has driven out the impurities and built up the thin, acid blood and stimulated the sluggish organs to better action, the cure is thorough and lasting. The feverish, excited nerves then are soothed and the muscles relieved of the torturing tension, and the whole system is restored to its former healthy state. S. S. S. contains no potash or alkalies, but is guaranteed purely vegetable.

Promised Too Much To Satisfy the Girl

"I DON'T know what to say, Harold," replied the girl, after a long pause. "There are so many things to be considered. Did you ever care for anybody before you met me?"

"Never, Lucy," fervently responded the young man. "You are the first and only."

"Would you want me to go and live with your people?"

"No; we will have a little cottage of our own."

"You will be tired of me in less than a year."

"I wouldn't tire of you in a thousand years."

"Would you be willing to spend your evenings at home?"

"Every one."

"Men are such tyrants, and I've always been used to having my own way."

"You shall have your own way still."

"You will never tell me I must or mustn't do anything?"

"Never."

"Always let me do just as I please?"

"Absolutely."

"Then I shall have to say 'No,' Harold," the maiden said tearfully. "I never could trust myself with such a husband as that."

Not What He Expected.

He was ten years old, and when he slipped out of the house at daylight he left a note for his mother saying he was going west to fight Indians. A discouraging combination of circumstances, in which hunger, weariness and fear all played a part, made him think better of it, and he returned to the parental roof at 9:30 p. m. He was not received with open arms. Indeed the family met him with coldness. The clock ticked; his father's newspaper rattled; his big sister studied obtrusively; even his mother didn't seem to care whether he came back or not. Nicodemus, the cat, not being in the secret, rose and rubbed his soft side caressingly against the culprit's leg. He stooped to pet him, and then, with a last desperate attempt to start the ball of conversation, he demanded homely: "Is this the same old cat you had when I went away?"—Argonaut.

Promising Chip.

His Mother (suddenly entering the children's room)—Why, Tommy, you ought to be ashamed to have so untidy a desk! And why have you scattered these scraps of paper all over the floor?

Tommy (with a pencil behind each ear)—I'm playin' I'm carryin' on a real business, same as papa does.—Chicago Tribune.

Disturbing the Piece.

—Leslie's Weekly.

No Pay.

"Well, sir," brusquely inquired the girl's father, "what can I do for you?"

"Why—er—I called, sir," stammered the timid suitor, "to see if—er—you would give assent to my marriage to your daughter."

"Not a cent, sir. Not a cent. Good day!"—Philadelphia Press.

Calmed.

"Are you not afraid you will unduly alarm people concerning microbes?" asked one scientist.

"No," answered the other. "There was some little care, but since we told the public that money is full of microbes they lost all their terrors."

RECITAL FRIDAY

PLEASING MUSICAL PROGRAM AT HIGH SCHOOL.

Mrs. MacDonald of Columbus and Prof. Judson of Granville Will Take Part.

Next Friday afternoon the High School Chapel will be the scene of a very pleasing recital—the fifth in the interesting series given by Prof. N. B. Yearley. The affair will be entitled "An Afternoon with the Composers."

It will consist of selections from German, Italian, English, and American composers, and will not be limited, as at former recitals, to the works of one composer.

The chorus is larger than ever this year, numbering more than 300 fresh young voices. The soloists engaged by Prof. Yearley are Mrs. Edith Sage MacDonald, soprano, of Columbus, and Prof. Arthur H. Judson, violinist, of Granville.

Mrs. MacDonald is the leading soprano of Ohio's capital, and is very much in demand as a soloist throughout the state. This will be her initial appearance in Newark, and Prof. Yearley is to be congratulated on securing so eminent a singer.

Prof. Judson is a brilliant violinist, and the high school students are anticipating a rich treat in his performance.

The concert will commence promptly at 2 p. m., and will last about one hour and a half. The patrons of the school and the public generally are invited, and, as usual, the admission will be free, as the expenses are paid from the fund established by the "Little Bo-Peep" performance.

A Correction.

In quoting Councilman Moser yesterday, the Advocate said that he was assured that J. L. Hampton had told other members of the council that both papers had been "fixed" and that practically the same thing was told to the city officials including Mayor Crilly. Mr. Moser asks the Advocate to correct this statement by omitting Mayor Crilly's name. Mr. Moser said that Hampton did not at any time see Mayor Crilly and in this statement the Mayor concurs. Mayor Crilly says "I never saw Hampton to know him. I do not know him."

Cotton Is King.

In the days before the Civil war there was much talk of cotton being king. It seems strange now that it was claimed that if slavery was abrogated King Cotton would be forever dethroned, for so far from such being the fact his supremacy today is more unchallenged than ever. According to an article in "World's Works" cotton is now the basis of the dominant industry of the world. In their primary forms iron and steel products represent a value of only $1,700,000,000 yearly, while the estimated value of the world's output of cotton goods is $2,000,000,000. Twice as much cotton as wool is produced, and three-fourths of the world's cotton supply is grown in the southern portion of the United States. Twice the world's gold product for 1903 would have been required to pay the southern farmers for lint and seed; three-fourths of the capital stock of the national banks in the country would have been inadequate. Among the American export crops cotton towers pre-eminent, with $350,000,000 (1904 would make a better showing), against less than $600,000,000 for all other agricultural exports.

Japanese Cavalry In Manchuria.

A Japanese cavalry officer who was at the front in Manchuria during the movement against Kuropatkin says that mounted troops are indispensable now that smokeless powder conceals the enemy's positions. Speaking of the use of cavalry at Liaoyang to a war correspondent of the New York Evening Post, the officer said:

At Liaoyang the main part of our cavalry faced the side or flank of the Russian right wing and made demonstrations against it on account of topographical conditions. At Tielitz we designed to have our cavalry attack the enemy's right wing and then menace his left flank and back by galloping action. But our own right division having got into a distressing state, the cavalrymen had to come down from their saddles and fight afoot with infantry as re-enforcements. They did good service.

The failure of the cavalry to effectively pursue the Russians on the march to Mukden after Liaoyang is thus explained:

We could not use cavalry till the retreat began, and then the roads were too muddy, and came twelve feet high was growing in the fields. On account of these difficulties our cavalry did not once penetrate to the enemy's position. At Tielitz our cavalry did at one point come in contact with the Russian cavalry. We won in that conflict.

When sufficient in strength, and especially when accompanied by artillery, cavalry can still pursue a running army and compress it. If the nature of the ground is favorable. If, as at Liaoyang, the whole ground is soft and marshy, to chase an army precipitately would be of no effect. Infantry is better in such conditions. Indeed, cavalry should never be sent upon such duty.

This officer declared that in general modern cavalry must be the spymaster of the army commander and that its serviceableness is enlarged under new conditions. The Japanese are lacking in horse artillery, and that has proved a serious drawback in pursuing an enemy which makes good use of cannon at every ridge and pass. That the Japanese soldiers are not good horsemen this officer admits. Neither are they proficient in the use of carbine and saber when in actual collision with the enemy's mounted troops.

Fire In the Palace.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—The empress was in her music room at the palace when a fire broke out in the room from a defective chimney. Little Princess Joachim and Oscar were with her majesty and all three watched the servants extinguish the flames, which they did before the city firemen reached the palace. The emperor, who heard of the incident after it happened, ordered his adjutant to make a special report on the subject.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia.
It makes life miserable.
Its sufferers eat not because they want to, but simply because they must.
They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise.

They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffiness, headache, dizziness and what not.
The official remedy, proved by permanent cures of thousands of severe cases, is

After a Desperate Fight.
Clarksville, W. Va., Jan. 4.—William Murphy, charged with cutting the throat of Mary Klupner, 16, and seriously wounding the girl's father, sister and two young men who went to the rescue, was captured after a desperate fight. Murphy was arrested by a constable and was being taken to jail when he jumped off the Pike street bridge into Elk creek. Standing chest deep in the icy water he defied arrest, and for over an hour held at bay a party of armed deputy sheriffs, constables and police officers. He was finally captured after many shots had been fired and he was beaten into insensibility. He was bleeding from many wounds and his recovery is doubtful. The girl is in a critical condition.

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 4.—Colonel Clement of counsel for Bishop Talbot returned from Wilkesbarre, where he conferred with the other counsel of the bishop. In regard to the public statement promised Colonel Clement said: "Bishop Talbot deeply regrets that the peace of the church should be disturbed by the reopening of this long-settled controversy. He feels he will be completely justified in his course with regard to Irvine from beginning to end. He deems it inexpedient to make any further statement."

Abandoned by Herring.
St. John, N. F., Jan. 4.—Twenty-three American fishing vessels which have been seeking cargoes of frozen herring in Connaigre bay have been unable to obtain them. It is feared that this branch of the winter herring fishery will be a total failure, herring apparently having abandoned Placentia and Fortune bays, with their lesser inlets, which previously formed their favorite haunts.

A Grave Charge Against

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT ACTS

Fresh Indictments Expected in Oregon Against Some Very Prominent People.

Washington, Jan. 4.—An inspector of the interior department has been ordered to Idaho to investigate the charges made by an affidavit as to frauds in Idaho, and he is believed to have already begun his labors. On information on the subject could be obtained at the interior department, and Secretary Hitchcock will not discuss it. The papers in the case, however, have been forwarded to the inspector. It is expected that he will keep Secretary Hitchcock promptly advised of all developments.

In connection with the Idaho affidavits it is alleged that a syndicate exists for, ed to acquire valuable timber lands from the government. Other affidavits are expected shortly in the Idaho cases. Within the past three weeks over 1,500 patents on timber and homestead lands in the Roseburg (Ore.) land office, covering about 380,000 acres of land, have been held up at the interior department pending investigation. Roseburg is the home of Representative Herrmann, who was recently indicted by the grand jury in connection with alleged frauds.

Fresh indictments are being prepared in Portland, Ore., where the grand jury will resume its sessions during this week, and persons prominent in public life other than those whose names already have been implicated are involved. The mission of Oliver E. Pugin, the assistant attorney in the department of justice, who left here several days ago for Portland, is to assist in the framing of new indictments, a work at which he figured conspicuously during the postal investigation a couple of years ago.

Claims He Gave Mitchell Money.
Portland, Ore., Jan. 4.—S. A. D. Pater, recently convicted in this city with Horace G. McKinley, Daniel T. Tarpley and Mrs. Emma Watson of conspiracy to defraud the United States government of lands, made a statement to the Telegram in contradiction of statements issued by United States Senator Mitchell, indicted Saturday last by a federal grand jury on evidence similar to that presented at the criminal trial of the persons recently convicted. "When I said that I gave Senator Mitchell $2,000 to use his influence with Binger Herrmann to expedite these claims in 11-7," said Pater, "I told the truth, and Senator Mitchell knows it."

Beer barrels are marked with a series of crosses nowadays to denote the quality of the beer contained in the casks. These crosses were originally put on by the monks, who then made all the malt liquors, as a sort of trade mark. The crosses were not of the same shape as now shown, but were more akin to the shape of a crucifix, and were intended to show that the "beer oath sworn on the cross," the beer supplied was of a fit and drinkable kind.

SENATOR MITCHELL AND THE LAND FRAUD CASES.

United States Senator John H. Mitchell and Representative Binger Herrmann of Oregon declare that they will easily show the lack of foundation for the mention of their names in connection with a report of a federal grand jury investigating what have come to be known as the Oregon land fraud cases. Both gentlemen have gone to their homes to meet the charges.

Death of Mrs. Meek.

Mrs. Christina Meek, an inmate of the Home for the Aged of this place, died at that institution on Monday, January 2, after a brief illness of heart trouble, aged 68 years. The funeral services were held at the Home on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and were conducted by the Rev. A. H. Lathrop, pastor of the Granville Methodist church, assisted by the Rev. C. M. Prior, and the interment was made in Maple Grove cemetery. The deceased was the widow of a soldier of the civil war, and formerly resided at Shiloh, O. She had only been an inmate of the Home since October 25, 1904, but during her short stay she had impressed all by her sterling qualities of heart and mind, and although removed from sight, the influence of her beautiful Christian character will live on in the memory of her friends, and the good which she hath wrought shall only be known when the great scroll of Time shall be unrolled and all shall be judged by Him who seeth and knoweth all things and who here, death all things well.

Notes and Personals.
Mrs. Mary Treuttt, who formerly resided at Alexandria, and who is 94 years of age, is quite ill at the Home for the Aged.
Mrs. Eliza McKenna, Mrs. Rebekah Shumard and Mrs. Phoebe Allen, who have been quite sick at the Home for

A Memorial.

At the last meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Y. M. C. A. the following memorial of appreciation and respect for the late Mr. Benjamin Franklin, for so many years an honored member of the board, was entered on the minutes of said board and ordered to be presented to the family of Mr. Franklin and to be printed in the papers of the city:

Mr. Benjamin Franklin first became enlisted on behalf of the Association in the month of August, 1876. The Association had just been organized and it was proposed first of all to secure a sufficient subscription to meet the rental of the new rooms to be opened, for a period of three years.

Two of the members prepared a subscription paper providing for the payment of each subscriber of ten dollars per annum for the period of three years, to meet said rental. After affixing their own names they first timidly entered into what was then the Franklin Bank. Mr. J. H. Franklin met them graciously and without hesitation each subscribed. From that day to the day of his death Mr. Franklin became and was a true and loyal friend of the association, and one of its most liberal supporters.

In the list of our wealthy and influential citizens Mr. Franklin was one of the few who could always be depended upon to take the better side. Whatever made for private virtue or domestic felicity, or public sobriety and morality, or the healing of the sick and the establishment of a city hospital, or the highest and best development of young men, or for the advancement of the Kingdom—all that Mr. Franklin favored and openly supported. He ought and will be held in lasting remembrance as one of our best men—whose memory we cherish and whose departure we deplore.

We, the members of the Board of Trustees of the Y. M. C. A., have a deep sense of loss arising from our long connection with him as a co-laborer in a noble cause, and as a fellow helper without whose presence the association would not have been. Our sympathy goes out to Mrs. Franklin and to the other loved ones of his household in their unspeakable bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Swartz gave a family dinner New Year's day at their home to their children and grandchildren, to the number of twenty-six, and eight friends. The day was fine, the dinner was fine, and all report a fine time.

Mr. Ryan's New Year Party.

The open house social given Monday at the well known commission house of J. F. Ryan from 2 to 5 o'clock p. m. was a grand occasion in commemoration of the New Year, and the best tribute to the enterprise of our new merchant, who did everything to make the occasion the most social and pleasant ever held in Newark.

During these hours there was a large outpouring of merchants, grocers, business men of all descriptions, professional men and the best people of the city at the store of the well known and popular gentleman, Mr. Ryan, who did everything in his power to serve and please his guests and the honorable gentlemen, was at the entrance of his place to receive, please and serve his guests to the choicest eatables of the season, and it can be safely stated that the luncheon and feast served outlasted anything of a similar nature ever spread upon the tables in Newark. In truth it was the greatest feast ever given in the city.

Over six hundred men participated on this occasion, parrot of the feast, which was sumptuous in every particular. Quarters of roast beef, baskets of hot oysters, oranges, bananas, fine fruit, bread, cakes, sambrams, fresh young onions, radishes, cress and all choice delicacies of the season were served in elegant style.

Prominent business men from Cambridge, Zanesville, Dresden, Granville, and surrounding towns dined on the boards of this elegant feast. All pronounced Mr. Ryan one of the best and most successful caterers of the day. Ex-Senator W. H. Bolin and Joe England of Zanesville came up and joined the carousal knives on the left and served the guests in a fine manner. Nothing of the kind was ever served by a business man in this city before, and Mr. Ryan is deserving of all kinds of success in business, and his friends at the close of the feast wished him a happy New Year, and they predicted for him a successful financial and business career in 1905.

Sure Relief for Women.

No. 18 Central Ave. Hot Springs, Ark., April 20, 1902.

Eighteen months ago I was so completely run down that my body ached from head to foot. My back seemed to break in two and I suffered intense pain in the lower abdomen. I could not afford to lay off and take a rest, and no medicine helped me any.

A friend told me how much Wine of Cardui built her up and advised me by all means to take it. The day I took the first dose the recovery of my health began. It was nearly three months before I was entirely cured, but at the end of that time I was in better health than I had been for seven years.

WINE OF CARDUI

Mrs. Nelson describes the condition of thousands of women. That condition comes by slow stages. Usually the important function of menstruation is at first slightly irregular. Then comes the painful periods. Bearing-down pains and ovarian inflammation follow. Finally the nervous system gives way and the whole system has become affected and the pains rack the body from head to foot.

Wine of Cardui is a menstrual regulator of established reputation. No woman who takes it suffers as Mrs. Nelson suffered. It gives speedy and complete relief from the torturing menstrual agonies which are making so many women invalids today. Do not let yourself come to the pitiable condition Mrs. Nelson describes.

Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today and begin treatment immediately.

Knowing His Business

By A. D. SAYER

Copyright, 1905, by the American Press Association

NIGHT was falling in the San Carlos valley. Already in the canyon where the Overland express wound around the rocky spurs it was dark enough to show the triangle of red lights on the rear sleeper.

At Sadler Tom Burns had taken the train to haul up grade to Casa Grande and thence down to Los Pinos, the end of his run. Tom had taken trains through the mountains for many years, but so far in his career he had never met that terror of the railroad and express company, the train robber of the Sierras.

At Mogollan the locomotive stood hard breathing under the water tank, while Pease, the express messenger, came forward and watched Tom oiling his engine.

"Hello, Sam!" said the engineer as he poked the long nose of his oil can among the frames of No. 47. "Carryin' any coin with your boxes tonight?"

"Dry up, Tom," returned the express messenger irritably. "It's none of your business what you haul, is it?"

"Got some aboard then, eh?" laughed Tom. "Well, I reckon there'll be a few of them mountaineers a-lookin' for us some of these trips."

"I haven't got much tonight, but somehow I feel queer. Don't know why I should. I've gone through with more plenty of times."

Big Tom finished oiling and put the cap on his oil can.

"Don't you hev no presentiments, Sam," he remarked, looking around at the lovely country about the water tank.

"All ready thar, Jim?"

The fireman on the tender nodded and swung back the spout.

"Keep your eye open, Tom, on the mountains," said the express messenger as he started back to his car.

Two hours later the heavy train was pounding the grade within a few miles of the divide. When he sighted the signal lamps of the siding where the eastbound No. 5 should pass him, Tom sent the air to the wheels to hold her until the switch was opened and he could pull into the siding. Here and there a passenger dropped off the steps of the Pullmans to look up at the fantastic cliffs above them. The conductor went into a little shanty serving as a telegraph office for the use of passing trains. There was no operator at that point, but the conductors could make shift to report their trains.

After a time he came out and went along to the engine.

"Here's a train order, Tom. Funny, but they were calling when I went in. Usually I have to spend ten minutes getting the dispatcher to take my report."

Burns took the rough scratch of copy that was handed him and read:

Division Headquarters, Nov. 6, 189—
Tr. No. 5, one hour late. Tr. No. 3 will pass 5 at Sandblow 7:14.
B. P., Div. Dispatcher.

Burns climbed into his cab and read the order again. Then he pushed back his cap with a grimy hand and pondered. Finally he hailed the conductor, "Say, Bill!"

"What's the matter, Tom?" The engineer did not reply, and the conductor hurried forward into the gloom.

"Bill, I reckon we'd better not leave."

"Not leave! Why not?" asked the conductor.

"Well, I don't like that order."

"What's wrong with it?"

"It ain't like R. P. to say why an order's changed. Usually it's just an order on!"—Burns hesitated a moment and then said, "Well, Bill, you know we're carryin' somethin' tonight."

"Tom, you've lost your nerve. That order is all right."

"No, I ain't lost my nerve either. There's somethin' about that order that don't seem natural. I call it a forgery."

"I'll go over and call up R. P. He'll know whether he sent his order or not."

While the conductor was gone several passengers came forward to learn the cause of the delay.

The conductor came running back. "I got R. P. easily enough. He repeated the order, and here it is." The new message ran:

Cert. Order's all right. Come along quick.

Burns eyed the scratch with a suspicious eye. Then he picked up his lantern and oil can and started to work on the engine again.

"Hurry up, Tom," cried the conductor. "We can't lay here all night. We'll tie up the road."

"I ain't goin'," growled Burns.

"Man, you're crazy! There's the order and the order repeated."

"I've been runnin' on this road long before you fellows knew a Tomto from a toadstool," said the engineer. "an' I know old R. P.'s orders. He never sent no such message as that an' here's where I stay till No. 5 comes along."

"I order you to pull out," said the conductor.

Tom Burns made no reply. A crowd began to grow about the engine, urging upon its members the advisability of pulling him from the place and letting the fireman haul the train. A person in remarkably well fitting clothes now pushed his way to the front.

"See here, engineer," said he, "do you know who I am?"

the carefully dressed man, "and a stockholder in the company. Unless you start immediately I shall report your conduct to the authorities."

"That's right; fire him!" yelled a few of the nearest.

"Well, George," said Burns, "the only stock I ever held was a new branded steer down in El Paso. Just you wait until you get to the authorities before you report me, will you?"

Something in the confident banter of the engineer and in his mysterious suspicion calmed the indignation. There was a momentary lull, and a little child from the sleeper suddenly said:

"Papa, I hear nozzler train comin'."

Far up the canyon an indistinct rumble was heard. Louder and louder it blew down on the cold night air. The rails began to sing. A shrill siren rang among the cliffs. Then the headlight blazed into view, and with a blinding whirl of wind and sand No. 3, east-bound, thundered by.

The crowd stood amazed till some one, realizing what they had been saved from, yelled:

"What's the matter with the engineer?"

The roar that followed showed conclusively that the majority thought he was all right.

Burns lost no time in starting as soon as he could get his hands free from the clasp of the men about him. For some time they rumbled on up the grade, the express car in darkness giving no hint of the agent sitting there with a Winchester across his knees, listening through the whir of wheels for the sound of brakes.

Over the summit of the pass and down the western slope the heavy train slid along. Suddenly Burns instinctively closed the throttle and grasped the brake lever. Far ahead a red lantern swung to and fro across the track.

For an instant the great perplexity of a great crisis showed itself on his face. Then muttering, "I'll risk it anyhow," he pulled back the throttle again, and the train rushed on. Vigorously swung the red flame of danger, but Burns yelled over the boiler to his fireman:

"Track's clear, Jim, but look out for their lead!"

Both men crouched in the cab. But no shots were fired. Burns glanced up suddenly and shut off the steam. A dark mass was taking shape on the track.

"Stand by to jump that, Jim!" the engineer said sharply.

The train was binding and pounding under the force of the hard applied brakes. With frightful rapidity the mass ahead seemed to near them. In the gloom it appeared to be a labyrinth of beams and girders hopelessly tangled. In reality it was a few ties and an old rail or two heaped hurriedly.

Those who are really mated and are of equal social standing don't have to propose—at least, not in so many words—for they know each other's heart so well that they have come to a perfect understanding without saying a word about marriage.

Such as these never become jealous, because they have entire confidence in each other, nor do they act silly or want to make a grand spectacle of their wedding or anything of that sort. Their sole thought seems to be of the home they are going to establish and of the useful, happy life they believe to be before them.

It matters little whether such as these have any money or not, for they are satisfied to work for what they need, and they will get it surely.—Pittsburg Gazette.

An Absentminded Canon.

It was the turn of Minor Canon Lindley to preach in Norwich cathedral. He was aware of his own infirmity of absentmindedness, and therefore gave the key of his study in the close to his landlady, with instructions to lock him in and to let him out just in time for service. She did not wish to take the responsibility and finally gave him back the key, but he remained under the impression that she took it as he desired.

He read his sermon over until the bells began to ring. Then he put on his surplice and waited. Of course no landlady came to release him. He grew uneasy as he saw the congregation assemble. Then the great bell began to toll for the assembly of the dean and chapter. Still no one came to let him out.

At last, in despair, Mr. Lindley threw open a window, and by the help of the waterbut and spout he climbed, in his full canonical robes, into the street. Fortunately for his dignity it was so late that almost every one was in the cathedral and few saw him, but the two or three privileged ones who witnessed it enjoyed the performance hugely.

On his return home Mr. Lindley mechanically put his hand in his pocket for the key, found it and had opened the door of the room before he realized that his difficulty had been imaginary.

Effient Carillons.

Time was when, even among the cities of Flanders, famous for ages for their silvery bells, the bells of Brussels enjoyed pre-eminence. The city used to possess seven great peals whose silvery voices shed their harmonies daily over the city. One after another, however, they have disappeared until only a single peal remains—that of St. Jacques-sur-Condernberg—and this is never heard—silent like the rest of the glorious bells of Belgium, which once from nearly every parish church in the land breathed forth the soul of Flemish art in melody, inspiring founders and artists to work that won fame through Europe. The French revolution wrought the ruin and condemned the land to the silence of the utilitarian age.—London Globe.

And She Worried.

"I'll go through fire and water for you," he said.

"Yes," she sadly replied as she got a whiff of his breath, "but you don't seem to be able to give up firewater for me. I told you I'd break our engagement the next time you came around in this condition. Go!"

Later the poor girl worried, for she had an idea that she might have driven him to the dogs.

Song of the Chauffeur.

A cloud of dust, the warm sound of rattling wheels—
Of fugal trumpet blowing.
A sudden halt, a crazy sound
To where the wheat is blowing
Above there come the village crowd
With ribbed hats and a cheer.
With feathery glances they shriek aloud:
"Get a horse! Get a horse! Get a horse!"

For weary hours lost to view
He loathes the auto labor!
The world is one of his bad days.
To all he's a good neighbor
Once more he bows his way along
And sings his lullaby verse
And this the burden of his song
"Get a horse! Get a horse! Get a horse!"

"Tom, this has been a big day for you. Hello! Here's one of them, eh? Shot?"

"No; just banged with a shovel," answered Burns, working away at the wounded robber.

"I want you to come over this side a moment and see something that will surprise you," continued the conductor, starting across the track.

"What's this?" asked the engineer a moment later, handling a curious little box attached to some wires which disappeared among the rocks.

"That's a tap, Tom. Those chaps tapped the telegraph, and here's where the orders we got were manufactured."

"So then fellows planned to hev us run into Five on the down grade an' then plunder the wreck," said Burns thoughtfully.

"It was only your fault that they didn't," said the conductor.

Twenty-four hours later Tom Burns stood on the carpet before the desk of the general superintendent, nervously twisting his cap between his hands. Beside the functionary of the road sat the carefully dressed man, the stockholder of the company.

"Burns," said the superintendent severely, "your train was four hours late yesterday. What's the explanation?"

"Jest a bungle at a holdup in the San Carlos," replied Burns.

"You don't seem to take advice kindly, do you, Burns?" continued the superintendent. "For instance, yesterday you wouldn't take the advice of nearly a hundred passengers, including a director of the road."

"I know my business," replied the engineer, "an' can attend to it without any advice."

"How long have you had an engine?"

"About fifteen years," was the answer.

"That is too long, much too long," said the official. "I am going to give you something different. Tomorrow you will receive papers appointing you superintendent of the San Carlos division. We need a man there who knows his business."

True Mates.

Your earnest, manly man doesn't want a woman for a wife who has to be coaxed or won with sweetmeats and wooing, cooing words. She might ornament his home, but he fears that she might insist on being coaxed to get up in time to get breakfast or maybe to eat it after he had it ready.

When two have become well acquainted they will soon know whether they are mated or not, and this they will know so well that you can't convince them otherwise. He doesn't fall down on his knees and plead with her to give him her heart, for he knows she hasn't the giving of it. Her hand is all that she controls, and he pretty nearly knows what she will do with it.

WOMEN WHO STUDY STARS.

Astronomy Affords Occupation For a Number of College Graduates.

Some of the most important of recent discoveries in the realm of astronomy have been made by women. They do not ordinarily peer through the big telescopes at the heavenly bodies night after night, for this is a work that requires great physical strength and endurance. But these are days when, curiously enough, a great deal of astronomical research is carried on by persons who never use a telescope. Photographic negatives taken night after night at various observatories and carefully classified afford material for some of the most important work in the world of discovery.

The Harvard college observatory, for example, is very shortly to bring out a bibliography of variable stars that has been compiled by one of the women of its staff. It is an interesting fact, too, that a great majority of these curious heavenly bodies have been noted by women observers working at the Harvard observatory under the direction of Mrs. W. F. Fleming, an astronomer who has the credit of having detected more new stars than any other one person living. Mrs. Fleming has a corps of fifteen expert assistants.

To enter this profession it is important that a young woman should not only be alert and sharp sighted, but well educated, and a considerable number of Mrs. Fleming's corps are graduates of Radcliffe, the girls' college affiliated with Harvard university, among them Miss Henrietta S. Leavitt, who is making the discovery of variable stars from photographic negatives her life work, and Miss Annie J. Cannon, whose study of the photographic spectra of fixed and variable stars has given her a very high stand among the world's astronomers.

Director Edward C. Pickering of the Harvard observatory has always taken great interest in the courses of astronomy at Radcliffe, for apart from their general interest and value they are of great help to the science in bringing to it young women who are well equipped to begin tasks of special investigation. A number of American observatories are now served by Radcliffe girls in important positions, the chief assistant of Professor Raymer at Carleton college, in Minnesota, being Miss Charlotte R. Willard, while Professor Mary E. Bird is director of the Smith college observatory and Professor Mary Whitney of the Vassar observatory.

PADEREWSKI'S PARROTS.

Musical Fond of Birds That Accompany Him on His Tour.

Ignace Paderewski, the "musical dreamy Polak," who has again entered San Francisco after an absence of six long years, recently arrived from Australia on the liner Ventura, with his wife and his seven parrots, says the San Francisco Examiner. He wrote his name upon the St. Francis register, while the chattering, cackling birds have scratched theirs in the bottoms of their sandal cages aboard the steamer.

It is a strange collection of birds that the great pianist has brought with him. There are birds of every hue and color. There are talkative parrots, babbling cockatoos and a "cooing" type, which a Jackie aboard styles an Australian pigeon. All are natives of the south sea continent. They were collected under the direction of the master, and he intends to carry them home with him. The exact itinerary has not yet been arranged, but they will give a number of concerts before leaving the United States. Their ensemble work is said to be especially effective.

Those who doubled the sea as fellow passengers of the virtuoso state that he is particularly fond of his chattering troupe. They have been christened, their musical career has been entered upon, and all are fond of their master.

But, although the birds love their master and he in turn has a fine regard for them, there is not always peace between them. On one occasion on the voyage to America the pianist was in the midst of a beautiful theme. In the very heart of a tender passage a noisy cockatoo put on the "loud" pedal with a screech that was audible for a mile in the Ventura's wake. Exasperated, Paderewski rushed from the music room, grabbed the loud mouthed fowl by the neck and tossed it into the briny.

Before his feet touch the deck of an Atlantic steamer Paderewski will have given seventy concerts in the various cities of the United States.

"And the parrots?" was asked.

"Oh, the parrots will make the tour also," came the reply.

Three Ohio Roads are Put in Receivers' Hands

PART OF APPELBYARD SYSTEM

C. L. & S. Central Market and S. & U. Roads Affected by Court's Action.

Cincinnati, Jan. 4.—In the United States circuit court here Judge Thompson appointed receivers for three Ohio traction companies as follows:

The Central Market Street railway (C. L. & S.); The Dayton, Springfield and Urbana Electric railway company and the Columbus, London and Springfield Railway company. Jacob H. Schmidlapp, president of the Cincinnati Union Trust company, and Myron H. Wilson, treasurer of the Cleveland Trust company, were appointed receivers.

The preliminary to application for receivers was the filing of a suit against each of the roads and the consent of the representatives of the road.

The General Electric company entered the suits against the Central Market company and the Columbus, London and Springfield company. In the case of the Columbus, London and Springfield company the suit was for $5,982, to which the company agreed to judgment and against the Central Market company the suit and judgment was for $10,658.

Horace Power, an Eastern capitalist, brought suit against the Dayton, Springfield and Urbana company for $10,410. The three roads are a part of the Appleyard system.

Improvements in Sight. Springfield, Jan. 4.—John S. Harshman, who has been connected with the receivership will be a good thing for the entire Appleyard system.

Mr. Harshman said that it was decided to carry out the plan of double-tracking the C. L. & S. U. between Springfield and Dayton, and of cutting off the spur at London for the C. L. & S. and that other important improvements are in consideration, of which no announcement will be made at present. The double-tracking will be done the coming summer.

It Was No Surprise. Columbus, Jan. 4.—The action is not a surprise to Columbus men of business. The effect upon Columbus will not be nearly so hurtful as in Cincinnati.

Comparatively little of the stock of the companies is held in Columbus, but it is stated that large amounts were bought up by small investors in Cincinnati when the lines were being promoted.

The lines affected have all been constructed within the past seven years.

DOCTORS' MEETING

HELD TUESDAY TO DISCUSS THE FEE BILL.

All Physicians of Newark and County Asked to Attend a Meeting January 10.

The Licking County Medical Society met in regular session Tuesday afternoon. There was a large attendance and the meeting was very spirited as well as harmonious.

The time was occupied with a discussion "The Fee Bill," which has been in the hands of the committee for some time. The bill reported is a very conservative one. A report was made and a regular fee bill was unanimously adopted.

As there has been no regular fee bill governing the profession in this city or county for some years, it was thought best to have a uniformity among the physicians as to their charges for services. Other cities much smaller than Newark have adopted a uniform fee bill.

All the physicians of the city and county will be notified, and a meeting will be held on Tuesday, January 10, at 2 o'clock p. m. in their room at the Court House where all the physicians of both city and county are asked to be present for the purpose of consummating the action so unanimously adopted by the Licking County Medical Society at their last meeting.

ATTENTION, WOODMEN. Social session Wednesday evening. Barrel of cider donated by James Rutledge. Gingerbread by O. H. Young, and cigars by John Seurum. Let every member be present. Installation of officers.

GLASS FACTORY

MANAGED BY THOS. J. GAINOR WILL BE ENLARGED

Company Will Issue More Stock. Build Addition and Employ More Coshocton Men.

Word comes from Coshocton that Thomas J. Gainor, formerly of Newark, is about to increase the size of the Coshocton glass factory of which he is manager.

There was a meeting of the directors of the Coshocton Glass company and it was decided to issue $40,000 more stock and considerably enlarge the plant. The factory force is all too small to handle the ever increasing business that Manager Gainor brings in. It is understood that work will begin in a short time.

The company's capital stock is already $60,000 and it will be increased to $100,000. Under the new order, there will be $60,000 common and $40,000 preferred stock. Only $10,000 of the preferred will be put on the market, the balance being already cared for.

Mr. Gainor and his associates have done about three times what the board of trade required of them when they agreed to take charge of the Coshocton plant.

From September 1 to December 31, the firm manufactured 31,895 gross of bottles or exactly 459,232 bottles. In the same time they have paid out for labor $61,146.50.

COSHOCTON BRIDE

And Her Husband Almost Die in Fire.

ILLINOIS HOME DESTROYED

While Blowing Out Lamp Oil Exploded and House Was Set Afire.

Coshocton O. Jan. 4.—Word has been received by Lawyer Elisha Stockum of a terrible accident befalling his niece, Mrs. Jesse Pierson, of Chatworth, Ill., formerly Miss Flo Stockum of this city, and a bride of but three months.

As Mrs. Pierson blew out the light of a large hanging lamp upon retiring, the lamp exploded, drenching her with blazing oil. Her husband hastened to the rescue and was terribly burned in extinguishing her blazing clothing. Meantime the whole room burst into flames, and it was with difficulty Mr. Pierson carried his wife to safety.

In an upstairs room, Samuel Stockum, her brother, was asleep, and awakened too late to get down the blazing stairway. He was forced to leap from a second story window. While Mr. and Mrs. Pierson were terribly burned it is believed they will recover.

The house and contents were a total loss. It had been newly and handsomely furnished.
